Human Rights Situation in Iran – Annual Report 2018

Annual report on Human rights in Iran

Department of Statistics and Publications of Human Rights Activists in Iran
Preface:

This leaflet contains the 2018’s analytical and statistical annual report on the human rights in Iran, prepared by the Department of Statistics and Publications of Human Rights Activists in Iran (HRAI). This statistic analysis report presented by HRAI, is the result of the daily efforts of this organization and its dedicated members as part of a daily statistic and census project that started in 2009 by this organization.

This annual report on human rights violations in Iran (2018) is the collection, analysis, and documentation of 3677 reports concerning human rights, gathered from various news sources during 2018. Human Rights Activists News Agency (HRANA) has gathered and reported 35%, official or close to the Iranian government sources 58% and other human rights news agencies 7% of all the reports analysed in this Annual Report.

The following 42-pages includes statistical overviews and related charts on various sections regarding women’s rights, children’s rights, prisoners’ rights, etc. Based on this report, despite the 6% increase in human rights violations reports in provinces other than Tehran, compared to the last year’s annual report, there is still a major concern on lack of proper reporting and monitoring of the human rights by the civil society in the smaller cities.

This report is the result of endeavours made by courageous human rights activists in Iran who pay a very high cost for the realization of their humanitarian believes. However, for obvious reasons (i.e. existing governmental limitations and ban on the free exchange of information and government preventing the existence of human right organizations in the country), this report by no means is free of errors and cannot alone be a reflection on the actual status of human right in Iran. Having said that, it should be emphasized that this report is considered as one of the most accurate, comprehensive, and authentic reports on the human rights conditions in Iran and it can serve as a very informative source of information for human rights activists and organizations working on Iran, to better understand the challenges and opportunities that they may face.

Figure 1. The following map illustrates the number of reports per province made by the human rights organizations and news agencies, this is a direct reflection of the capability of the civil society in each province of the country (2018).
As indicated in the distribution map, there exists a major difference between Tehran, the capital, and other parts of the country in terms of the number of published reports. This is while the population of Tehran has been reported on the census of 2011 as 12,425,000 people, compared to the population of other parts of the country being 62,724,669 people.

According to the statistics from 2018, the focus and capability of human rights reporters has been 21% in Tehran compared to 79% in the rest of the country.

Table 1. The following table represents the provinces included in the 2018 annual report of the human rights in Iran and the respective number of reports. Absence of a province on the list does not indicate the absence of human rights violations on the corresponding pro.

* Overall: reflects reports that do not concern a particular province but apply to the whole country.
The following pie chart illustrates the percentages of submitted reports based on the province.

To begin the study of the categories of human rights violations in Iran, it is important to initially compare the categories based on the number of reports made in each category in the past year.

Figure 5. Percentile of number of reports made in 2018, based on the Legal Category.
In the field of national and ethnic minorities’ rights, a total of 207 reports have been registered by the department of the statistics and publication of human rights activists in Iran (HRAI) in 2018. According to these reports, at least 1171 people were arrested. And for 59 people, 2370 months of imprisonments has been issued. Compared to the previous year there has been an 836% increase in the arrest of ethnic minorities, and a 7.5% increase in imprisonment sentences.

As the following bar-chart illustrates Highest number of violations occurred in the month of October, in contrast the highest decline is observed in the month of May.

The following graph illustrates the number of violations of human rights in the category of national-ethnic minorities in 2018 comparison with 2017.
